In the Matter of
Update With ID Networks:

TUESDAY, JULY 14, 2026
OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
PICKAWAY COUNTY, OHIO

Commissioners met with Doug Blenman with ID Networks to get an update with the CAD project. The discussion began about the status of the original 2024 CAD project contract and the factors contributing to project delays. Mr. Blenman explained that the initial phase of the project in 2024 focused on getting the general CAD system operational. While the original implementation timeline was approximately four months, several unforeseen issues delayed progress. Server preparation took significantly longer than anticipated, delaying implementation of the new servers. Additionally, obtaining and validating GIS data proved more complex than expected. The project team enhanced the mapping data beyond what was originally provided, and a system demonstration was completed in January 2026, including the ability to enter calls into the CAD system. Additional project requirements emerged during implementation, including the need to incorporate protection orders, warrants, and civil process information into the system. These requirements had not been identified during the initial project planning and required development over the past year to ensure all court-related information would be available in one location.

Mr. Blenman stated that delays across multiple project components also affected the implementation of automated unit recommendations and dispatch functionality. Configuration of the GIS and CAD systems proved more complicated than anticipated, but the necessary setup was completed last month. Data conversion is nearing completion, and software installation and user deployment are expected to begin within the next two to three weeks.

Commissioner Scherer shared concerns expressed by fire chiefs regarding delays in developing fire run cards. The request to begin run cards was made on January 21, with an expectation of completion by February; however, the information was not received until March, resulting in approximately a three-month delay. Doug reported that the final version of the run cards has now been completed.

Commissioner Wippel asked how future system changes would be managed once implementation is complete. Mr. Blenman explained that ID Networks will not perform routine updates after project completion. Instead, authorized county personnel will receive login credentials to maintain and update the system. He also noted that Ohio code requirements and code creation presented additional unexpected delays. Much of the system has been customized specifically for Pickaway County, and some level of ongoing system adjustments should be expected.

Sheriff Hafey noted that the new system will consolidate records into one location. Mr. Blenman stated that four data analysts have been dedicated to data conversion over the past 12 months. He also noted that some data from the previous Central Square system could not be validated or converted correctly.

Commissioner Wippel asked Mr. Bennett if he had additional comments. Mr. Bennett stated that he had repeatedly been instructed to delay work and requested an opportunity for the fire chiefs to preview the system before implementation so they could prepare their agencies. Mr. Blenman responded that a system review is planned within the next few weeks, including a demonstration of the iPad application currently operating with the system. He reiterated that the goal remains to have Pickaway County fully operational by the end of the third quarter (August or September).

Sheriff Hafey asked about the run card development process and communication between ID Networks, Central Square, and fire personnel. Discussion followed regarding incorrect data received from Central Square and revisions that were required as additional information became available. Robert Adkins, IT Director stated that information often lacked a central location during development, resulting in multiple revisions.

Discussion then turned to project management and communication. Mr. Adkins noted that approximately 20% of the projects had been invoiced and asked who was working as project manager. Doug stated that he serves as project manager when available, while Helen has been acting as the CAD project manager. Mr. Blenman also confirmed that he will conduct training for new users.

Mr. Adkins expressed concerns regarding communication, stating that he had difficulty receiving responses to questions and felt communication had primarily occurred through Captain Phil Relli. He noted that tasks originally expected to take days or weeks had extended into months and that the overall project has now lasted approximately two years. Mr. Blenman apologized for the communication concerns and stated that delays in completing the run cards were intended to ensure they function correctly before the system goes live. He added that changes and refinements will continue after implementation and that the county will be able to make future modifications once the system is turned over.

PICKAWAY COUNTY, OHIO

EMA Director, Tiffany Nash, manager of the 911 Center, stated that she would like to be notified immediately when issues arise rather than learning about them during later meetings. She also noted that her office had repeatedly asked how they could assist but had not received responses. Mr. Blenman agreed to ensure Ms. Nash is included in future project communications.

Mr. Adkins asked what the largest remaining obstacle to implementation is. Mr. Blenman responded that there are no significant issues currently preventing implementation and reaffirmed that the system is expected to go live by August or September.

Mr. Blenman concluded by stating that once a go-live date is selected, the county will proceed with implementation even if a final data conversion must be completed afterward. He committed to providing at least 24 hours' notice before the final conversion and indicated that performing multiple data conversions, if necessary, would not present a problem. Although some requested data additions are not typically included in similar projects, ID Networks agreed to incorporate them for Pickaway County.

The project team reaffirmed its commitment to having the system live by the end of the third quarter, with users expected to begin operating the system immediately following training.

In the Matter of
Analysis of Big Darby Creek
Scenic River:

Mr. Bob Gable, Heather Doherty, and Mike McNutt with Ohio Department of Natural Resources Scenic Rivers stopped in to talk about the Big & Little Darby Creeks Conservation Project. Mr. Gable began stating that as State and National Scenic Rivers, both Big & Little Darby Creeks are characterized by exceptional water quality and abundant aquatic life. They system is home to diverse aquatic species and offers outstanding recreational opportunities. In late 2024 the ODNR Division of Natural Area and Preserves initiated a two-phase conservation project for the Big & Little Darby Creek System to determine how to protect these at-risk streams. Darby Creek is home to 100 fish species, in which 5 are endangered, and 45 freshwater mussel species and 8 of those species are federally endangered or threatened. ODNR's goal is to share the information it gathers and provide guidance to central Ohio communities with the goal of preventing declines and protecting this exceptional river system.
